Martin at Congressional Country Club, Washington, D.C., for their October meeting. After one of the outstanding dinners of the year, they enjoyed dancing.

Don Brimmer, Woodmont Country Club, Rockville, Md., chapter president, reminded managers during the business meeting to submit entries for the Idea Fair at the CMAA Conference. Don Masters, Riverbend Golf and Country Club, Great Falls, Va., showed slides promoting the conference. All enjoyed the slide briefing, and fine chapter attendance at the conference in February at Dallas is expected.

A committee consisting of Mr. Brimmer, Paul Burley, University Club of Washington, and Don Wilkinson, Bethesda (Md.) Country Club, will study possible changes in the constitution the coming year.

Chapter elections were set for the November meeting. The chapter's installation dinner was scheduled for January at the Officers' Club, Bolling Air Force Base, where Maj. Ron Pickett, secretary, and Bob Hurt, manager, will be the hosts.

Air Field, and Katherine E. Pyne, Fay Club, Fitchburg, were voted into the chapter.

Mr. Coulson, chapter president, reported on his meeting in New York with Arch Mundy, India House, a CMAA regional director, regarding the possibility of the New England Chapter joining the present Four Chapter organization consisting of the Metropolitan, City of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut Chapters.

It does not now seem advisable, because of distance involved and the fact our chapter does not feel the need of the political advantage of such an association. Closer relations with the Four Chapter group were urged, however.

The chapter voted to donate $100 to the CMAA scholarship fund.
